

BIBLE AND FLAG FOR HIGH SCHOOL

Program Arranged for Flag Presentation—Two Veteran Teachers Retired—Other Proceedings by the Board of Education.

The permanent retirement of Miss Sara Godkins and Miss Elizabeth Mills from the teaching force of the city after long and faithful service in the city schools, and other changes in the teaching corps of the city; a tentative program of exercises submitted by Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, in connection with its forthcoming presentation of an American flag to the new high school, and the presentation to the school of a magnificent Bible by Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, Junior Order United American Mechanics, were among the matters which occupied the attention of the board of education at its regular monthly meeting Friday evening.

All the members of the board were present except Messrs Atkins and Washburn.

A communication was received from Andrew J. Cook, chairman of the committee in charge of the presentation to the new high school of the American flag presented by Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, asking that the board appoint a suitable time when such presentation might take place which will be most convenient to the members of the board.

The committee suggested that it would be pleased to have the presentation occur on the morning of Labor Day, with exercises to commence about 10:30, and the committee further suggested the following tentative program:

- 1.—Selection by hand.
- 2.—Announcement of purpose of the meeting, etc., by chairman.
- 3.—Presentation of flag by the Grand Knight of Kingston Council, K. of C., the flag to be raised by a boy or girl of the school, to the accompaniment of "The Star Spangled Banner."
- 4.—Acceptance of the flag by the board of education.
- 5.—Speech by some well known speaker of national reputation.
- 6.—Selection by the board.

On motion of Surrogate Gill, the matter was referred to Superintendent Michael with power.

Financial Matters.

The finance committee reported the August pay roll amounting to $10,794 and audited vouchers amounting to $11,971.75, which were ordered paid.

The finance committee offered a resolution that it be authorized to accept the water bill when the same is presented on September first and pay it. Carried.

On motion of Trustee Kelder of the finance committee, the president was authorized to contract with the trustee of District No. 5, of the town of Ulster for the tuition of pupils attending the Kingston schools from that district.

This is the district which formerly formed a part of the old Kingston school district before the schools were consolidated and for the education of whose pupils provision was made in the consolidation law.

The finance committee reported the usual resolution reciting the fact that it will be necessary to borrow $500.00 for the maintenance of the schools before the taxes become delinquent, a February 1st of which for the immediate use of the board the sum of $1,000.00 be borrowed. The loans are to be negotiated at not less than par and notes bearing interest at the rate of five per cent will be issued, payable when the tax levy becomes available on February 1st next.

This is the usual resolution adopted by the board at its August session when the schools were consolidated. Under the amendment to the city charter passed last winter, the board of education finances will be arranged so that it will be no longer necessary to borrow in anticipation of the tax levy and a year's interest charges. The resolution was adopted.

Changes Among the Teachers.

The teachers' committee submitted the following report:

Teachers' committee submitted the following report:

reputation as a teacher of science. As an assistant in English and biology, we have secured the services of Miss Laura Reimer at a salary of $700 per year. Miss Reimer is a graduate of Kingston Academy and Vassar College and has served as a temporary teacher of biology at Kingston Academy, doing half time work therein during the last school year.

We have secured the services of Arthur T. Burke as teacher of commercial subjects in the academic department at $1,000 per year. Mr. Burke has had successful experience as a teacher of stenography, typewriting and bookkeeping in Spencer's Business School of this city and in the public high school of Brunswick, Ga. Mr. Burke is well known in this city where his wife's people have lived for many years. In fact Mr. Burke has sacrificed financially in order that he may live nearer his people.

We also report that on their own request, Miss Sara Godkins and Miss Elizabeth Mills have asked for retirement and their applications were filed at the State Education Department during the latter part of June. We have received notice that the applications were considered and granted at the meeting of the retirement board in Albany on the 30th of July. Retirement automatically severs their connection with the teaching force.

We recommend that no appointment be made to fill Miss Godkins's position as a substitute and that Miss Mills's place be left vacant until after the opening of school in order to determine whether or not the attendance at No. 5 will be sufficiently large to warrant the filling of her place.

The report was adopted.

Tribute to Faithful Service.

Before its adoption, however, County Clerk DeWitt paid a fitting tribute to the long and faithful service of Miss Godkins and Miss Mills.

Mr. DeWitt said:

"On behalf of the entire city, and of the taxpayers and of many fathers and mothers of this city and all the men and women who have had Miss Godkins and Miss Mills for their instructors, I wish to express the appreciation which is felt for the service performed by these two ladies who have given so many years of their life to the education of the boys and girls of this city."

"Miss Godkins has been a teacher in the city schools for more than half a century and Miss Mills has been a teacher here nearly as long. I am confident that it is the earnest hope of everyone who has been fortunate enough to have been numbered among their pupils that their remaining years may be spent along with us as their earlier years have been and that all their days will be filled with pleasure."

"Year after year they labored faithfully to instill high ideals in their pupils and their teaching has laid the foundation for the success of many men and women in after life. I feel sure that every member of this board will second what I say in regard to them."

Routine Matters.

The matter of soliciting bids for wiring and placing a circuit power panel in the manual science department where the eight motors there can be operated was referred to the high school building committee on motion of Surrogate Gill.

President DeWitt appointed as visiting committee for September Messrs Bernstein, Kearney and DeWitt.

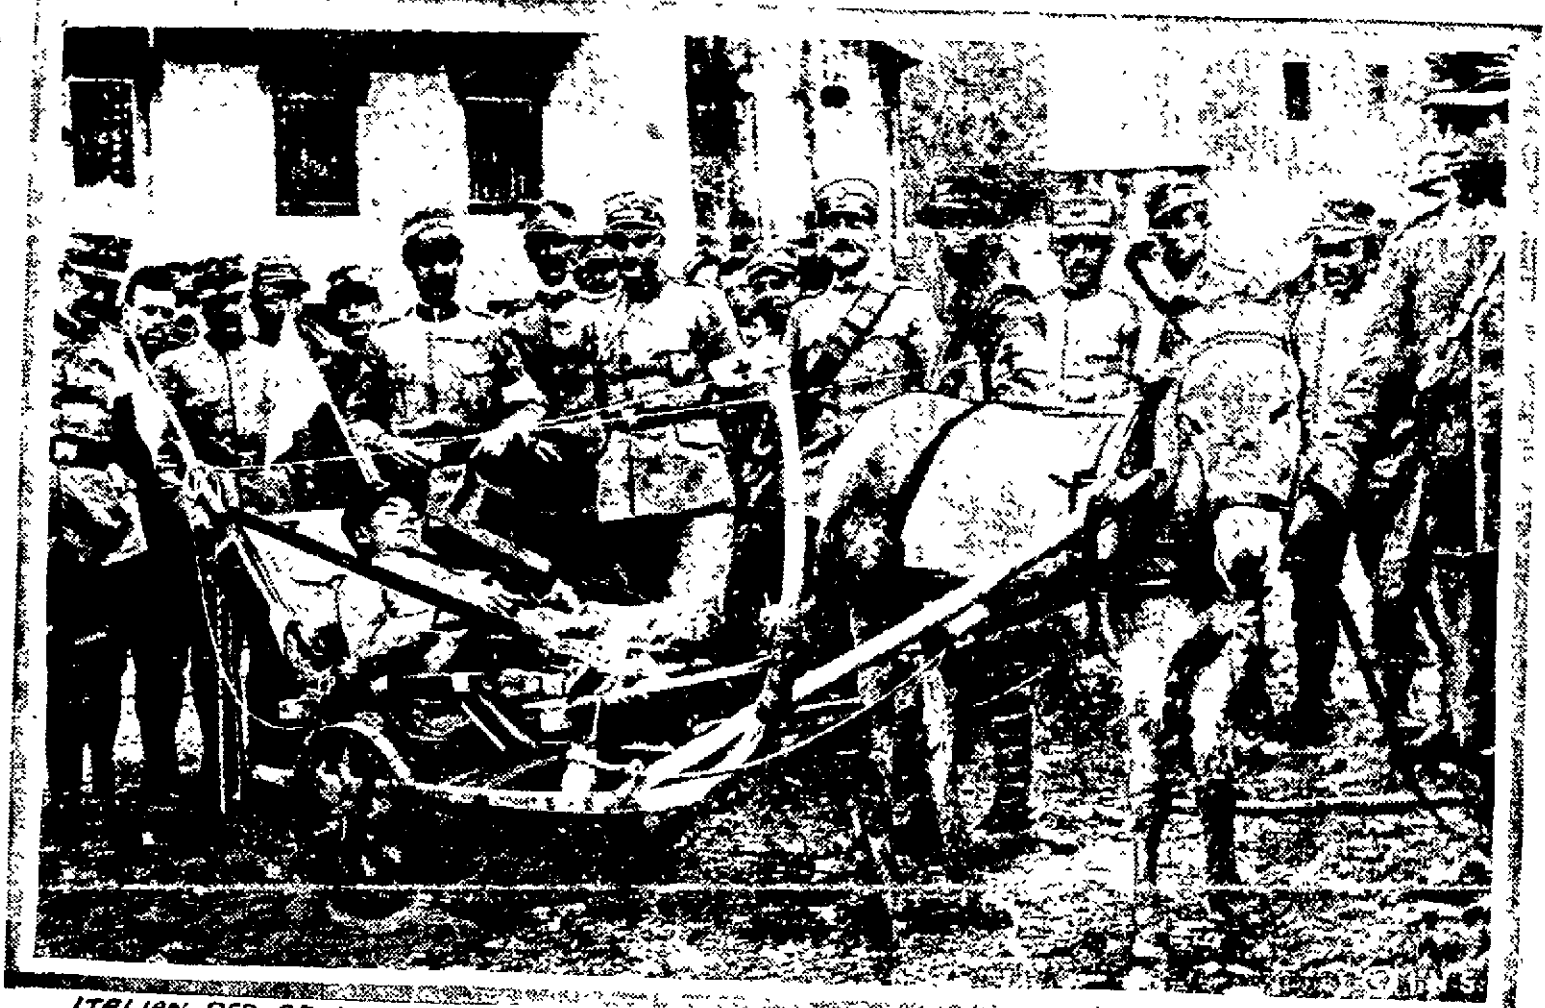

On motion of Surrogate Gill, the matter of employment of clerical assistance for the principal of the high school was referred to Superintendent Michael and Principal Moulton with power.

American Mechanics Present Bible.

Trustee Kelder announced that a committee of Charles DeWitt Council No. 91, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, had come to the school to present the Bible it offered to the board sometime ago, and on his motion the board adjourned to the auditorium to receive it.

The Bible was brought to the school by a committee of Charles DeWitt Council, the members being: Mayor Canfield, G. A. Craig, commander, J. Elwin Herrick, J. E. Caille, Leonard Flicker, James Hutton, D. W. Boyd C. H. Lord, F. M. Pruden, Festus Cook, Lorenzo Deitz, F. J. Keener, John Quick, Judson Van Gaasbeck, Ward B. Touque, G. W. Pressel, Chas. Herb, C. L. Smith, C. F. Lehen, H. A. Barth, Joel Christman, Robert McKittrick, Everett Sarachanu, Peter Messinger, F. N. Fischard, Geo. E. Ryer, Albert Plouffe.

The Bible is magnificently bound in full morocco, with gilt edges, and is finely printed on thin paper. The Council also presented a handsome solid oak standard on which the Bible may be placed, and in which there is room for other books which will be used on the auditorium platform.

ITALIAN RED CROSS DONKEY AMBULANCE.

ITALIANS USE RUDE DONKEY CARTS FOR RED CROSS WORK.

The picture shows a Red Cross contingent at work near the Isonzo battle front. The wounded men are transported to the base hospitals in these rude donkey carts. The donkeys resemble our western burros and are very dependable for travel over the rough and dangerous mountain roads. Such an ambulance could scarcely be called comfortable, but it is remarkable efficient when the character of the country in which it is compelled to work is taken into consideration.

and other famous men of all ages—Galileo, Milton, and hundreds of others, set it above all other books.

"It is interesting to know what great men of the world have said of the Bible. Goethe wrote that he esteemed it to be thoroughly genuine. Even Napoleon in his later days sought the comfort to be found with its pages and wrote of his daily readings of scripture. He considered the Gospel as no mere book, but as a power."

"I could go on indefinitely adding testimonials from the greatest men of the world in regard to this greatest book of the world."

"We must admit that it is the masterpiece of all literature. Within its pages is solved every problem of human life. It compasses every phase of human duty, and a knowledge of its contents develops and broadens us all. While we find within it words of wisdom and sweetness we find profundity of feeling with wonderful simplicity of expression. The perplexities of life and of all religious moods are answered by its teachings."

"The Bible not only is a wonderful book, but it is the most popular book in the world. It has been translated into seven hundred languages, and the demand for the book never ceases. On the contrary grows larger constantly. Three of the largest Bible houses last year printed and issued over twenty million Bibles."

"We should all stimulate Bible reading for literary, if not for religious purposes, and because it is all of the things I have mentioned, because it possesses all the literary and other greatness which has been referred to by the master minds of every age it seems eminently fitting that it should have a place here, and on behalf of Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, Junior Order United American Mechanics, I take great pleasure in presenting this Bible to this board of education for use in this high school."

President DeWitt Accepts the Gift.

In accepting the Bible on behalf of the board, President DeWitt said in part:

"It is a coincidence that the member of this board of education designated to receive this gift should be a lineal descendant of the same Charles DeWitt, the soldier of the revolution, whose name was chosen by this council."

I have appealed to humanity through all the ages of religious life. No matter in what tongue it is written or under what sun it is printed, it sounds the heights and depths of human emotion and feeling.

"Its simplicity has been the subject of admiration of scholars of all time, its directness is unmistakable. Its lofty teachings have been dwelt on by those far more capable than any of use here. Notice this:

"If I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, but have not love, I am become sounding brass, or a clanging cymbal."

"And if I have the gift of prophecy, and know all mysteries and all knowledge; and if I have all faith, so as to remove mountains, but have not love, I am nothing."

"And if I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and if I give my body to be burned, but have not love, it profiteth me nothing."

"Love suffereth long, and is kind; love envieth not; love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up."

"Doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not its own, is not provoked, taketh not account of evil; rejoiceth not in unrighteousness, but rejoiceth with the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things."

"Love never faileth; but where there be prophecies, they shall be done away; where there be tongues, they shall cease; where there be knowledge, it shall be done away."

"Isn't that a wonderful lesson to teach to mankind—the love of man for man? It is the greatest thing, the greatest book ever written can say."

"It has been my privilege for fifty years to stand every morning on the platform and look down on young faces and read a portion of this book to the young people. And it has seemed to me that no portion of this book ever appeared to give the child of the thirteenth chapter of the first Epistle to the Corinthians."

"You gentlemen are casting bread upon the waters which will return after many days, and for the good and the happiness which will result from the reading, if of nothing else than the great lesson of love I have just read, on behalf of generations yet unborn, I thank you."

FACTORY DESTROYED BY SUBMARINE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Berlin, Aug. 28.—(By wireless.)—An official statement issued by the admiralty today charges that a German submarine was fired upon by a large passenger ship in the Irish Sea on August 15, though the U boat had made no attack upon the steamship.

The admiralty's statement follows:

"On August 6 a German U boat destroyed near Harrington on the Irish Sea a benzene factory warehouse and furnace belonging thereto, by artillery fire. The destroyed was one of the largest in England."

"The assertion in the English press that the U boat bombarded the open towns of Harrington, Parton and White Haven, is incorrect. The same U boat was bombarded at a great distance on August 15 in the Irish Sea by a large passenger ship, although the steamer had not been attacked."

WHY IS NOTE TO BRITAIN HELD UP?

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Officials not in the confidence of the president and Secretary of State Lansing were puzzled to explain why the new note to Great Britain, including a sharp rejection of her assumed right to make cotton contraband, still was held up.

Secretary Lansing stated that the note was "practically complete," but declined to say when it would be started London-ward. It is believed generally that the administration is endeavoring to secure some material concessions by unofficial negotiations before finally placing itself on record.

In the White House it was stated that President Wilson has been very greatly impressed with the seriousness of the situation so far as the south is concerned and that this is the real reason why action has not yet been taken. He is endeavoring, it was explained, to compile a protest that will force action rather than continued diplomatic negotiations.

One difficulty has been that some of the leading cotton representatives, including Senators Letcher and Hoke Smith and Representative Kitchen have been demanding that the note take the form of a virtual ultimatum. Thus the president was expected to do better than better results could be secured by the United States interests will suffer if the British attitude is not modified.

NARY NO REFORMATORY.

Justice of the Peace Cannot Use it as Prison.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The sentence of Justice of the Peace Nosh Woodruff of Roselle Park, N. J., ordering George Pierce, 18, to enlist in the navy for five years, never will be carried out. Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt today wired instructions to all recruiting stations to reject Pierce's application.

"The navy is not a reformatory," asserted Roosevelt today. "These cases only arise through the ignorance of magistrates of the conditions of affairs now existing in the navy."

All navy department officials were "up in arms" today over the New Jersey magistrate's order. Young Pierce has been convicted for stealing some green corn from a neighbor's yard. The magistrate said he didn't want to send him to jail and therefore would make him enlist in the navy.

Building Trade Notes.

Peter Falvey has begun the erection of a dwelling house on Eastchester street. The mason work is being done by George Fisher. The plumbing is being done by E. D. Coffey.

Chauncey Lane is making a number of improvements to his residence on Hasbrouck avenue near Chester street. New plumbing is being installed by E. D. Coffey.

Chris Larsen is painting his shop at the corner of Hasbrouck avenue and East Union street.

Air Rifle Confiscated.

A boy with an air rifle was shown his marksmanship on Staples street on Friday in discharging it struck another boy in the back. He was taken to the city hall, although the other boy's injuries were not severe. No complaint was made when the police confiscated the air rifle.

ROYALIST REVOLT IN PORTUGAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Lisbon, Aug. 28.—Another royalist revolution has broken out in Portugal. The revolt has resulted in bloodshed, but the republican government claims to have the situation well in hand.

This revolt, like the former, appears to center in the northern provinces. The military barracks at Braga and Guimaraes were attacked on Friday and looted of all the arms and munitions there, after the soldiers on guard had been shot to death.

Other revolutionists blew up the railroad bridge at Trofa to prevent the government sending troops from Oporto into the north, but soldiers were dispatched in automobiles. The minister of the interior announced today that the disturbances had been quelled.

LONDON WATCHES GERMAN SITUATION

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 28.—Foreign office officials are watching closely the developments in the German-United States negotiations in Washington. Intense interest was created here by dispatches stating that in conjunction with his promise of "full satisfaction" for the sinking of the steamship Arabic, Ambassador von Bernstorff had proposed that the United States government initiate steps looking to a modification of the British blockade.

While government officials decline to be quoted on the situation, no secret is made of the belief that Germany is making a long deferred bid for the favor of the United States. The action of the allies in declaring cotton contraband is believed to have quarters to have affected the German attitude.

Germany, holding friendly relations with the United States by yielding to the policy of submarine warfare, may have taken to the United States to make a strong protest on the cotton question.

The Daily Express presents a novel view of the situation in its editorial comment today, saying:

"Grave strategical possibilities may result from Germany's belated repentance. Good behavior by Germany in the next few weeks probably will prevent the entrance of the United States fleet into the war."

"With that adversary ruled out, Admiral von Pohl might be tempted to make his long heralded dash into the Atlantic with a concomitant attempt to land a force on British soil. A hostile United States navy would hamper activities of the raiders in the Atlantic."

"Therefore the diplomats have been ordered to put on the white sheet."

The Daily News suggests that the submarine alleged to have sunk the Arabic has in turn been destroyed and that therefore, Germany may with comparative ease disavow the action of the U boat's commander.

BRITISH COAL STRIKE SPREADS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 28.—Disobeying the orders of their leaders, the 30,000 miners on strike in South Wales and Monmouthshire refused to return to work today. Ten thousand more men also quit.

Sixteen collieries had shut down up to noon today.

The executive committee arrived this forenoon and was immediately received by Lloyd George, who summoned Runciman.

The conference between the miners and cabinet minister ended at 1:30 p. m. without result. Adjournment was taken to Monday.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 28.—Trading was more quiet on the stock exchange this morning than at any time during the past few weeks. The most important movement was an advance of 1 3/4 in Baldwin Locomotive to 79 3/4, but there were many stocks aside from the "war order" issues which made satisfactory gains.

Third Avenue rose 3/4 to 54 1/4, and Interborough Consolidated moved up 3/4 to 21 1/4. Union Pacific rose 3/4 to 131 1/4 and Southern Pacific made an advance of 3/4 to 90 3/4. The upward movement in American Linseed made further progress, that stock advancing 3/4 to 21. United States Steel common and Anaconda Copper each gained 1/4 and Utah Copper rose 1/4. Inspiration Copper was active at an advance of 1/4. Corn Products showed a strong tone, moving up 3/4 to 18 3/4.

The market closed firm. Government bonds unchanged; other bonds steady.

MAVERICK THEATER OPENING A SUCCESS

The Maverick, the artist colony situated near Woodstock, held their first festival in their open air theatre Thursday afternoon. The festival opened shortly after one o'clock and the booths of the fair did a land office business. The races and games helped to pass the afternoon enjoyably until 3:30 o'clock when the call came for the pageant and all assembled in the open air theatre to witness the grand pageant which for this first year was confined to the theatre.

Most of the people who came, came in costume for the costume ball to be held on the stage of the theatre after the performance at the theatre last evening. Most, too, brought their lunches in baskets and ate their lunches therefrom on the hillside and secured their liquid refreshments from the booths at the fair.

For the evening affair everyone was urged to dress with comfort and not coats are especially taboo. Even the orchestra appeared in negligee this afternoon and will do so again this evening.

At half past seven with the full moon well up in the east, the company will be gathered for the second performance of which the great dancer, Lada, will give a series of six variations of the music with the marvelous grace and talent of which she is mistress. The music will be of the quality she deserves. Leon Barnum will be the conductor and Madame Maria Miesler-Nordoy will sing.

The colony known as the Maverick is headed by Hervey White, novelist and poet, and editor and owner of "The Wild Hawk," a periodical that is now completing its fourth successful year. From time to time the artists that have made up this colony have given concerts in the village of Woodstock and their reputation has gained a widespread fame with a long cherished desire to found an open air theatre where the artists could produce news plays and give them their first try out and repeat those which are adapted to open air production in the theatre which is being opened today was built. It sets in the hillside in an abandoned stone quarry. It is a natural theatre hewn in the rocks of the hillside and is a masterpiece in art.

Not only is it the aim of the artist to make this place a center for the congregation of the artists of that section but also for the inhabitants of the nearby villages and it undoubtedly will meet with favor on the part of the villagers who have long looked for such a place of amusement.

The noted artists who have given the influence of their names to this project are Jean Sibelius, Reinhold Gliere, Arthur Nevin, Henry F. Gilbert, among the composers; Anna Pavlova, Lada, among the dancers; Edwin Markham and Ivan Nordoy, among the writers; Birge Harrison and Dering Woodward, among the painters.

Foot, according to the common law of angels, are addicted to dark feet days. The well had been laid up and at some time had been filled in with loose stones. Its discovery fills a long needed necessity as water was always scarce in the summer time. Mr. Elismann occupies the Bassett place.

PITCHING STARS ARE REAL "COME-BACKS"

The present baseball season has furnished many surprises and disappointments in the work of the pitchers.

Many of last season's stars have failed to display the form that carried them and their teams to the front last year. There have been two notable cases of stars of years ago coming to their own again. Jack Coombs, formerly of the Athletics and now pitching winning ball for Brooklyn, and Joe Wood of the Boston Americans, who is pitching with the same effectiveness he did in 1912 after having experienced two poor seasons.

Further than this, more youngsters have made good this season than in almost any two previous seasons combined.

With the race in the National league so close that not a single team can be considered entirely out of the race even at this late date, the final standing will, in all probability, be decided on the merits of the various pitching stars. In this respect Brooklyn has the edge on the other clubs.

With the exception of Rucker, Robinson has rebuilt his entire staff, and he has shown rare judgment in picking moundmen. Last year he developed Pfeffer, while this year he has brought out Smith, Dell and Appleton.

A manager develops one first-class hurler during a season he is usually satisfied. Robinson not only has developed three good men, but he also secured Coombs from Connie Mack at the waiver price, thereby proving to his followers that he is one of the best judges of pitchers in the game.

BASEBALL STORIES

Still, even in baseball, it is a long slump that has no ending.

Some are fine managers, but Roger Bresnahan is a fine manager.

Dutch Zwilling is one of the most popular players on the White staff.

Jimmy Lander is pitching ball now like he used to in his best days.

J. Franklin Baker is leading the Delaware County league in home runs.

President Lannin of the Red Sox is enthusiastic over the showing of his team.

There is nothing quite as encouraging for a ball team as to have the rosters root.

This young fellow Shore of the Boston Americans seems to have his opponents at sea.

Pat Moran bars pennant talk. His players are not permitted to do anything except win games.

The Washington club has secured an option on Ed Garrity, the star catcher of the Minneapolis club.

Artie Butler is Dan Griner's hoodoo. Three times this season the former Pirate has thrown games away for Dan.

Clark Griffith announces that he will reconstruct his Washington team next year. He wants to secure some hard hitters.

So far none of the American league players visiting the capital have been able to bunt a ball over Washington monument.

The baseball season goes into the home stretch with every manager in the country at the head of a pennant-winning team.

The Cincinnati Reds may be anchored in last place, but they can give the leaders more trouble than any other team in the league.

Howard of the Tip Tops, who is used as a utility player both in the outfield and infield, played third base on the Cornell university team a few seasons ago.

Cottrell, the college pitcher recently released by the New Yorks, has been in the big leagues and out again a whole lot of times, and yet has never done anything.

The congestion around the top of the list in the old league is getting rather embarrassing for the crowd. Any afternoon may tip the entire bunch upside down.

Hugh Jennings is an ardent golfer. Haghey, however, says the game is barred so far as his players are concerned during the season. He believes the swing is detrimental to good batting.

New Fact for Historians. Funny answers by school children, are an old story, but the fact vouches for by one of these same children that "Louis XVI was gassed during the French revolution" is new enough to suit the most fastidious.

Good Rule of Life. Avoid extremes in living. Be generous (as generous as you can) getting as much pleasure as possible out of life, and take care that proper provision is in some way made for the future.

WHITE MAKES GOOD MANAGER

Former White Sox Pitcher Proves Himself Capable Leader—Is Praised By President Maler.

No one ever will be able to take the place Hap Hogan held in the hearts of Coast league fans. Hogan had a peculiar part to play that none can equal. But Doc White, who succeeded to the leadership of the Venice team upon the death of Hogan, seems likely to win a place all his own, as peculiar to himself as was that of Hogan.

With the Venice players grief-stricken and disorganized following Hogan's death, White took hold, got them to hold their heads up again, and is making them play winning ball. Doc's days as a pitcher may be over, but he has found his forte, as manager, and is proving a most capable leader and one withal who is as popular as he is talented.

That White will manage the Venice club next year and is really a fixture as leader of the Tigers, has been announced by President Ed Maler.

"White is no longer on trial," Maler explained. "I want that thoroughly understood. He has made good, he has proved himself a splendid manager, and, of course, he has always been known as one of the best men in baseball."

Would Amend Coaching Rules. Manager Roger Bresnahan of the Cubs wants to abolish the present coaching of ball teams, but he will not get a strong vote to help him out when the rules committee gets together next winter. Fans like to see the coach in action.

Johnson's Good Qualities. When Walt Johnson retires he will not have to quit the game because he has abilities in other directions. He will make a good manager or he will be able to give good service in the outfield.

Saints Make Wonderful Spurt. The St. Paul Saints have been winning at a tremendous rate of late. They won 32 out of 40 games played recently, and that is going about as fast as the speed limit will permit.

Harmony House

The "Good Angel" of the Home

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Harmony House dwelt in the midst of pleasant green lawns, noble trees and many scattered flower beds.

The rooms were arranged in suits of three small bedrooms, bath and sitting room, and to each suit the management allotted three "guests" of the house—splinters of fifty and over and indigent childless widows.

This "home," with its annual fee of $50 each, assured the inmates a home for life provided peace dwelt within its walls. In case of dissension the malefactor must bid farewell to Harmony House forever.

And Harmony House had been the gift of Miss Keriah Todd, a peace loving spinster of ample means.

Her portrait hung over the high mantelpiece in the front hall and gazed benevolently down upon the guests of Harmony House, whose lives she had tried to brighten while her own faded away into another world.

It was March, and there was a hint of spring in the sharp air, even though the snow lay eight inches deep over lawns, fields and highway.

Five o'clock of a March afternoon, and twenty-four guests of Harmony House gathered in the general sitting room on the first floor. Promptly at 6 Hepsy Biddle, the housekeeper, would announce supper, and if it wasn't Hepsy Biddle it would be one of the waitresses. Anyway, some one would ring the supper bell.

"I hope it's Hepsy. I want to ask her about the new lady who came this afternoon," fussed Mrs. Bennett.

"I saw her," remarked Alicia Pearson—"small and scrawny, like a little canary."

Some one laughed.

"I wonder if she sings like one?" muttered Ellen Smith, her false teeth clattering in unison with her tongue.

A sharp voice broke in from the doorway, a strange voice, the voice of the newcomer.

"I can tell you I don't sing like a canary!" it snapped. "And I don't cackle like a hen or twitter like a guinea hen! Oh, good evening, Mrs. Biddle!"

Over the tiny form of the late newcomer Hepsy Biddle loomed like an angel of peace.

"Why, Miss Olivia, I didn't know you had arrived! Did some one show you your room?"

"The girl did," said Olivia Ladd. "And she said it was most supper time, so I came down."

"That's right. Make yourself at home. I'll introduce you to your roommates, and they can introduce you to the rest."

Hepsy led Olivia up to Alicia Pearson and Ellen Smith.

They both bowed and said "Pleased to meet you." And Olivia stared hard at them and said pertly:

"Pleased to meet you, I'm sure!"

Hepsy drifted away toward the kitchen, and Olivia was left in the middle of the sitting room, with forty-eight eyes focused on her sprightly little form.

Olivia Ladd wore a black cashmere skirt, made narrow in the latest mode. She wore black high heeled slippers, with silver buckles, and a white shirt waist with a sailor collar that showed a stringy little throat that was quivering more than its owner would admit.

Olivia's pale sandy hair was coiled in two small flat circles behind her ears. Her blue eyes had a strained look, and there were hard little lines around her nose and mouth.

Not one of the women present dreamed that Olivia Ladd had reached what appeared to her a haven of refuge.

For thirty years she had been a dressmaker out by the day, and, having considered long and carefully how to invest her savings, she had been sent to the management of Harmony House.

"I'm going to do nothing for weeks and weeks," Olivia had promised herself. So she fired up her wardrobe and felt a sense of triumph in descending upon the rural inmates of Harmony House in the glory of up to date clothes.

"I shall never make clothes for any one except myself," was another promise Olivia had made. She felt rather forlorn in the midst of the women, and for one instant she longed for her tiny room in the crowded city.

But the old fighting spirit was in her, and she tossed her head and remarked pleasantly:

"I suppose there's a chair for me, but I don't seem to see it."

Mrs. Mattie Jones laughed good naturedly.

"It's right behind me, Miss Ladd. I'm so fat that I shut off all the view. Here, Miss Ambler, shove that chair around for Miss Ladd. Now, you sit down by me and tell me all the news from the city."

Olivia thanked Mrs. Jones and took the chair. She told her about the snow blockade on the city streets, about the near accident on the railroad and finally how she had dropped a cherished plant—a rose geranium—on the station platform and had seen it crushed to atoms by a heavy baggage truck.

She spoke of the latest and most thrilling news of the war, the sinking of ships by submarines, news which seemingly had not come to the ears of good natured, laughing Mrs. Jones. After the usual questions and exclamations of horror she passed on to other news.

"Never mind, my dear," reassured Mrs. Jones, patting Olivia's hand. "I've got two rose geraniums, all budded. My plant was so big that I divided it, thinking maybe some one would like one of them. I guess I was saving it for you!"

"You are very kind. I shall like you so much," said Olivia warmly, and the two women went out to supper in a glow of good feeling.

During the meal Olivia talked to some of the other women and liked it—except Ellen Smith and Alicia Pearson, who shared the same suit with the newcomer.

"It's just my luck," thought Olivia forlornly. "I wish I had shared some rooms with Mattie Jones or that Miss Ambler."

The evening passed quickly with fancy work, conversation and music from a large phonograph.

At 10 o'clock Mattie Jones got up and said good night. Her departure was the signal for a general exodus, and as the women went out Olivia's bright eyes had inventoried each one's appearance and found it wanting in style. Their skirts were too full, their shirt waists were out of date and all of them wore either black or white—most trying of all tints to one who is no longer young.

"I don't wonder they look cranky," said Olivia as she went up to her room. "What they need are cheerful clothes to liven them up. Take Mrs. Jones, with her white hair. She would look sweet in pink, like Mrs. Judge Latimer used to wear."

Olivia passed through the tiny hall that led to her room.

Miss Pearson and Ellen Smith were waiting for her, and Olivia stared at them while they prepared for bed.

"It may be the style," Ellen was saying, "but I don't think it's proper to wear skirts that tight!"

"Oh, pshaw!" retorted Alicia Pearson. "Seems as if I'll relish a skirt that didn't blow out like a balloon."

"Alicia! Would you wear such a tight skirt?" demanded Ellen in a horrified tone.

"I'd wear anything different," retorted Alicia recklessly. "I'm sick of looking so old and middle aged!"

"You can't help it. You are middle aged," snapped back Ellen. "I suppose you'd like to wear your hair in two little coils behind your ears," she sneered.

"I'm trying it that way now," said Alicia coolly.

"Let me see! Alicia Pearson, if you don't look like the old Nick!" gasped Ellen.

At that moment Olivia appeared in the door. She wore a low necked lace trimmed nightgown, and there was a quid little blue bow at the throat and on each apology for a sleeve. Her ginger colored hair was neatly braided and tied with blue ribbons.

"I thought I'd like to say good night to some one," she said rather timidly. "I've lived alone in a boarding house for so many years, and when I thought of coming here I kept thinking it would be like home—so many lonesome women glad to get together."

"Good land!" gasped amazed Ellen. "Come in and sit down," invited Alicia. "I'm trying to do my hair like yours. How do you manage it?"

Olivia showed her. Then Ellen's scanty gray locks were brushed into a fluffy mass on top of her head instead of its usual tight knot.

They fell to exchanging confidences, and finally they talked about clothes. Olivia was in her glory.

Then she gave them her confidence and told the story of her weary years at dressmaking and how being able to alter their clothes would be a pleasure instead of a drudgery.

Long after the lights were out and each woman was in her narrow bed they continued to talk back and forth until Hepsy Biddle knocked on the door for quiet.

The next morning Olivia formed a sewing club. Every member of Harmony House joined at once. They gathered about the newcomer with workbaskets and out of date garments, and Olivia showed them how to alter and make over gowns and coats and hats.

"You'll wear yourself out, Miss Olivia," expostulated Hepsy Biddle one day.

"I never was so happy in my life," returned Olivia. "We have such good times sewing together, Miss Biddle, and it's like one big family here. Seems like they're all my sisters and they need me. That's the happiest thought of all!"

Hepsy nodded.

"I suppose some folks would say clothes making was a sin, but I say anything that brings joy and peace to lonely hearts is all right. And quarrels mostly begin through idleness. So I think if Miss Todd was only here she'd shake hands with you and say you were the good angel of Harmony House. They've stopped squabbling, thank goodness."

Olivia blushed to the roots of her ginger hair.

"I'm so happy I don't know what to do," half sobbed Olivia as she ran down the steps of Harmony House.

"I think they're calling you to come over and play croquet," said Hepsy, with twinkling eyes, for the lawn of Harmony House was sprinkled with all the members of the big family. They walked freely in the grass and swung their mallets with vigor.

Their remodeled gowns may have been entirely inappropriate to sober middle age, and the freakish coiffures may have seemed ridiculous, but they were entirely happy.

Arithmetic by Hand.

We shall never be in danger of forgetting that our ancestors did their sums on their fingers so long as arithmetic retains the word "digits." But modern civilization knows nothing of the elaborate developments of this method. It takes a Wallachian peasant to multiply 8 by 9 on his hands. This is how he does it: The fingers of either hand, beginning with the thumb, stand for the numbers from 6 to 10. So the ring finger of one hand and the

A story is told of a sudden rage into which Napoleon I. fell one day as he was at dinner. He had scarcely partaken of a mouthful when apparently some inopportune thought or recollection stung his brain to madness, and, receding from the table without rising from his chair—his small stature permitted that he uplifted his foot—dashed the table, crash went the dinner, and the emperor sprang up, intending to pace the room. Quick as a flash his waiter scratched a few magic symbols on a bit of paper, and the emperor's

An Old Verb.

To laze is an old verb. In Samuel Rowlands' "Martin Markall," 1610, we are told that "lozters laze in the streete, lurke in alehouses and range in the highwaies." The word occurs. I believe, in some of Mortimer Coburn's

NEGOTIATIONS
SHIFT TO BERLIN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 28.—Negotiations for the expected complete understanding between Germany and the United States over the methods of submarine warfare have shifted to Berlin.

The Arabic incident is being held in abeyance pending the report of the German submarine commanders who have been operating off the Irish coast. President Wilson, through Secretary Lansing has agreed to accept Ambassador Von Bernstorff's assurance that "complete satisfaction will be accorded" in the Arabic case and will wait a reasonable time for Germany to get the facts from her viewpoint.

In the meanwhile Ambassador Gerard will press at Berlin for written assurances that methods of submarine warfare have been changed and for Germany to accept responsibility for the deaths of the Americans lost with the Lusitania.

Germany now is expected to renew her efforts to have the United States endeavor to modify the blockade order which precipitated the submarine reprisals. The administration has made it plain that it never accepted the doctrine of the order in council and has let Germany expect that it will make emphatic further protest to the allies.

It is understood that Count Von Bernstorff already has called Secretary Lansing's attention to the fact that Germany is more than willing to send German goods to the United States and to buy large quantities of non-contraband articles, if the "freedom of the seas" be restored. The secretary will discuss this entire question with the president in the near future.

It was announced today that the president will remain here until the entire submarine question is settled. He has been informed that the real reason for the present conciliatory attitude of Germany is an economic one. All of the allies need money and it was to prevent them getting unlimited quantities in this country that Germany made concessions to prevent a break.

McNamee Endorses Cochrane.

The judiciary committee of the Democratic party of the Third judicial district met this afternoon in Albany. Some of the party leaders urged Judge McNamee of Hudson to accept the nomination but he would decline. Judge McNamee, although a strong Democrat, asserts that Justice A. V. S. Cochrane should be designated by the Democrats as "it would be unwise, if not unfortunate, to supplant him with another, if that were possible, and even to offer him opposition would not be indicative of the debt we citizens owe to a judge who has done so well."

Isaac Oliver, colored, was killed on Tuesday afternoon by an Ontario & Western train near Fallsburgh. Monday Oliver was in Fallsburgh making arrangements for the funeral of his brother, John, who died Sunday. Deceased is survived by two sisters, Amelia Brown of Ellenville and Mary Oliver of Loch Sheldrake.

FIELD OF SPORTS.

Notes of Baseball, Pugilism, and Other Lines of Athletics.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 28.—Jesse Willard is willing to defend his title of heavyweight champion, but he wants his price. The big Kansas cowboy has issued his defiance to all the white contenders. He will take them all on, with three weeks between each contest. But the champion wants his price. He will fight if he gets $30,000 win, lose or draw. He wants to fight and he now awaits offers.

New York, Aug. 28.—The Phillies strengthened their hold on first place yesterday, while the Tigers crept closer to the leading Red Sox. Today the Phillies have a lead of 2 1/2 games over the Dodgers, who are only seven points ahead of the fast coming Braves. The double victory for the Tigers and the unexpected defeat of the Red Sox by the Clevelanders, enabled Detroit to get within 14 points of the American League leaders. Pittsburgh still holds the lead in the Federals, being 7 points ahead of Newark. The rush of the Reds in the national league received a decided check, due to their four straight defeats at the hands of the Phillies and they are again resting in last place.

Case of Anna Schermerhorn.

The case of The People against Anna Schermerhorn, arrested for being drunk and disorderly on Cedar street, came up this morning before Recorder Lang but was adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon. Defendant presented a physician's certificate stating that she was too ill to be arraigned. The court decided to name two doctors to examine the defendant for which the recess was taken. Judge N. Frank O'Reilly appeared for the complainant and Francis C. Merritt for the defendant.

The Leaves Are Leaving.

This morning "Tim" Hannon the popular motorman on the Kingston city division, entered the ranks of the jokersmiths when he stopped his car to allow passengers to alight on the bridge. One of the passengers "wings" was at work sweeping up the leaves that had fallen from the trees to the brick pavement and "Tim" looking first at his pile of leaves and then at the trees remarked "Ah, I see the leaves are leaving."

A Curious "Risk."

Nearly every business or occupation contributes bits of specialized knowledge to the common fund. It will strike most people as a curious piece of information that plate glass insurance companies class windows with black lettering on them as "extra hazardous" risks. The explanation given is that a black surface absorbs the sun's rays. By this means, it is pointed out, an unequal expansion is produced throughout the plate, and under the influence of a sudden gust of cold or any other quick change of temperature a strain is developed which may break the glass.

Explaining Baldness.

Dr. C. T. Ewart, a Scotch scientist, says his researches have led him to believe that the loss of hair on man's head and other parts of his body is a certain indication of intellectual progress. "This fact," he maintains, "explains to some extent the baldness which is always so prevalent among college professors and members of learned societies."

FINAL EFFORT TO SWING CARRANZA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 28.—One last attempt is being made to swing Gen. Carranza into line for the administration's Mexican peace plan. A special representative of Secretary Lansing now is in Vera Cruz, trying to show the first chief that, unless he does agree, he will be ignored and eventually eliminated as a factor in Mexican affairs.

Representatives of Carranza here declare that his mission will fail. They say that as soon as Carranza again is established in Mexico City, which they believe will be today or tomorrow, he will make another demand on the United States and the Latin-American powers for recognition. It is certain that any such request will be refused. The administration has determined that its peace conference plan must succeed and will recognize only the provisional president selected by it. General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, now is enroute to Washington to report in person to Secretary Lansing on his mission to Villa. The state department today denied that Scott would be sent to Carranza unless its present representative in Vera Cruz should ask that this be done.

Although officials decline to discuss the next session of the Latin American diplomatic representatives with Secretary Lansing, it is understood that it will be held the latter part of next week in New York. This, however, is contingent on a speedy settlement of the questions still in dispute with Germany, which are occupying Secretary Lansing's time to the exclusion of everything else.

MRS. EDITH SPECKELS WAKFIELD

ON NEWS OF DIVORCE VIRGIL SPECKELS WEDS F. W. WAKEFIELD.

(Mrs. Edith Speckels Wakfield.)

San Francisco, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Edith Speckels, formerly the wife of John D. Speckels, Jr., has started on another matrimonial adventure. As soon as the news of the final decree of divorce was received in Honolulu by cable, Mrs. Speckels was married to Frank W. Wakefield, capitalist. They obtained their license several days ago according to cable despatches received here from Honolulu, where they have been waiting for Mrs. Speckels's decree to be made permanent.

The final decree was drafted by attorneys here for both principals. After a brief conference with the presiding judge, both attorneys agreed to the form of the decree which specifically stipulates that the filing of the final divorce papers shall not affect the agreement entered into by Mr. Speckels and his wife in December, 1913, to settle their property action. This settlement has not yet been affected.

The two sons of the couple are with their grandfather, John D. Speckels, Sr., at San Diego, and the little daughter is here with her father. No mention of the children was made in the interlocutory decree, granted August 22, 1914, and it is said that Mrs. Speckels is satisfied with the present arrangement.

Fewer Germs on Linen.

Experiments have shown that germs do not increase as rapidly on linen as on wool, silk and cotton. This is why it is of so much value in surgical use and why many persons think it the most hygienic underwear.

A PERFECT KITCHEN

The cook is unquestionably one of the most important accessories to the well regulated home, for, if the food is not cooked daintily and is not pleasing to the palate, the nerves and dispositions of the family circle will suffer accordingly.

Now, the housekeeper will find that the best cooks, those who know their business, are to be found asking for places in The Freeman Want Ad pages. Will be found now many appeals for work as the good cooks know that the best housewives seek their kitchen help in The Freeman Want Ads.

Profit by this little sermonette. Madame Cook, and take, Madame Housewife, and take, The Freeman Wants into consideration.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)
Two months ago the Chicago fans were sure that they'd have both entries in the world series battle. A month ago they decided they'd be satisfied with one. But now, well, a sudden depression has settled up on Chicago's fandom.

They Will—Not!!
If women do get the vote and the much yearned for equal rights—wonder if they'll get up and offer some of us tired looking guys a seat in a street car?

They Never Return, Eh?
From out of the graveyard of pugilism, emerges one Abe Attell, who throws off his shroud, announces to the world that he's as good as any featherweight in the game today, and now spends his days hobnobbing from one promoter to another in quest of bouts.

McCahey—America's Veteran Jockey.
Joe McCahey is 27 years old, he's been a jockey for 10 years and yet he seems to be a more wonderful rider than earlier in his youth. And he weighs only 95 pounds. McCahey is the Honus Wagner of the turf game. The average life of a jockey ranges from 5 to 10 years, yet here is McCahey, after ten years of service, performing in better style than at any time in his career. If he maintains until the end of the season the winning average so far established, he will bring home for his employers more than he did in 1914 when his 824 mounts won 24.1 per cent.

Wonderful—If Reported Correctly.
The Giffers Magazine informs its readers that "it is reported" that a chap named Ernest Williams, of the Sale Club, playing over that course, did these wondrous things:

On October 17th 1911 he did the 1st hole (200 yards) in one. February 7th 1915 he did the same at the 17th hole (140 yards) and on April 10th he only took one stroke for the 6th (171 yards).

Boy! Page Freddie Welsh.
But Nelson wishes to inform all friends—and otherwise—that this month makes his 19th anniversary as a pugilist and that he has a message for Freddie Welsh, which reads as follows:

"If you'll give me a fight, Freddie, I'll guarantee to beat you over a 20, 25, 30 or 35 round route or I won't take a dollar for my work."

Bookies' Anti-Uppish.
Ever since the Dodgers moved up into the select circles of the National League the denizens of Brooklyn have become so proud and haughty that they utterly ignore the existence of the poor humans who live on Manhattan Island which is represented—or supposed to be—by a squad of unskilled workmen known as the Giants.

Heizing and the Czar.
Charles Heizing has the best tail-end army in the United States and the Czar has the best tail ender in Europe. The only difference is that Charles boasts about his.

Conspiracy Against Ty Cobb?
It is reliably reported that a committee composed of seven American League owners have applied to President Wilson to declare Ty Cobb's bat a contraband of war, or place an embargo on it, or do something to stop the Georgian from busting nice new ball park fences day after day. Wilson, it is said, has placed the matter in the hands of Walter Tolinson.

A Pinke Prize Fighter.
Henri Pinke, so the papers say, is the champion "pug" of Belgium. Undoubtedly Henri is always in the pinke of condition.

Coloma, Mich., Produced Koob.
The townsfolk in Coloma, Mich. got all wrought up recently over newspaper statements that Ernest Koob, the St. Louis Browns pitching "red" was a product of Ypsilanti, Mich.

It isn't true, wrote the Colomians. Koob comes from our town. Koob is Ypsilanti. He was born here and his home is here.

Koob himself probably will feel delighted over the fact that the rumor concerning his home town has been straightened out. Who would want to be known as hailing from a hamlet that spells its name Ypsilanti when one can just as well maintain the title of Coloma?

Card of Thanks.
We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our many friends and neighbors for the beautiful floral offerings upon the very acts of kindness shown during the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother. MICHAEL HOWARD AND FAMILY.

K. A. Not Disorderly.
K. A. Aug. 28, 1915.
Mr. Editor
The card of Mr. McAllister which appeared in the Freeman last evening does an injustice not only to the young ladies and gentlemen, "the students of the old academy," who play tennis on the campus from morning until evening, but to myself, as no others gather here. Mr. McAllister will vouch for these facts.

Covering Food.
Use paper bag to cover food or milk that is in a pitcher. This will keep out the dust and there is no danger of slipping off as with a plate.

HOWARD SHOWED HIM.
Runaway Motorcycle Does Things to Budding Legal Light.

Everybody can't ride a motorcycle and as a result the machine of Charles Behrens is laid up for repairs from a collision with a curb stone and a tree on Washington avenue. Friday afternoon Mr. Behrens yielded to the persuasions of "Bob" Howard, a budding young attorney in the law office of Brinners & Canfield, who was under the impression that he could ride anything that ran on wheels. Mr. Howard negotiated the distance from John street to Washington avenue successfully when the machine became stalled. While trying to start it "Bill" Riseley, another budding young attorney, happened along and told "Bob" that he would show him how a machine should be started and grasping the handle bars he started off running alongside the motorcycle. He had run but a short distance when the engine began to turn over and the machine ran away with "Bill" hanging desperately to the handle bars. Something was bound to happen and the machine traveled faster than "Bill" could run and headed directly for the curb near Pearl street which it hit with a bang. Leaped the curb and bumped into a tree, hurling "Bill" through the air. "Bill" was somewhat shaken up but was otherwise uninjured while the machine had to be taken to the repair shop.

The Dead Horse.
The smart traveling man stood on a corner in the little country village at dusk. He was looking for amusement, and the first object that attracted his attention was an overgrown boy, perhaps fifteen years of age, riding a horse that might have come out of the ark.
"Hello, sonny," shouted the sales man. "How long has that horse been dead?"
Quick as a flash the boy replied, "Three days but you're the first boarder that has noticed it."
The traveling man moved on to the hotel.—Youth's Companion.

Force of Association.
While the owner of the touring car dismounted during necessary repairs, the young front wheel timidly asked the old back wheel:
"Don't you get weary of the social whirl—revolving and revolving and revolving?"
"You'll get used to it," said the old wheel. "Our owner is a spinster, with nothing to do but go round, till sometimes I feel like a Daughter of the Revolution myself."—Judge.

Miss View.
Willis—Do you think a man should be allowed to hold the highest honor in the United States more than four years?
Gills—Sure thing! I say, if a man can top the league in batting for ten or even fifteen years let him stay in the game for the good of the sport. Beetle Journal.

BRITON INVENTS BULLET PROOF HELMET.
London, Aug. 28.—The bullet proof helmet invented by E. F. Weston may be adopted by the British army if the war office approves, the experiments which are now being conducted. The helmet is made of a secret composition and is said to resist the direct fire of a rifle or bursting shell. It covers the head and a band fits in the shoulders protecting the neck. It is quite heavy but is fitted with a leather and steel harness so that most of the weight is supported on the shoulders.
